Sell The Ox and Fill Up the Ditch

People often soothe their consciences for missing services, by saying: "The ox was in the ditch."

Once when Jesus was criticized for healing on the Sabbath, He asked: "Which of you shall have an ass or an ox fallen into a pit, and will not straightway pull him out on the Sabbath day?" (Luke 14: 5). He was trying to show them the stupidity of their reasoning. They knew they would not hesitate in rescuing an ox. Human life was even more valuable. Many still seize this phrase to excuse (or try to) missing services. If they feel a little bad (but no worse on Monday when they go to work): if they have worked hard all week and need a rest; if they are behind with their work; or if they make good money through the week, but Sunday is the best day for business; or double-time is too tempting, then "the ox is in the ditch", and they must forsake the Lord to take care of the ox!

To these brethren who so misinterpret the passage, may I suggest this:

(1) Sell the ox. If you had an ox that went around looking for a ditch to fall into, you would likely sell him. If your business demands so much time that you cannot serve the Lord, SELL IT!

(2). Fill up the ditch. If a ditch is located so that an ox will continually fall into it, then fill up the ditch! And if the ox doesn't fall in, we'll push him in. Brethren for the sake of your eternal salvation, SELL THE OX OR FILL UP THE DITCH!
